THE NEWSLETTER OF THE NASHVILLE PHOTOGRAPHY CLUB

Shelly Rosenberg

Over the last sixteen months, NPC member Shelly Rosenberg has taken several photo tours to various parts of the world—Africa, Iceland, Southeast Asia, and India—collecting stunning images and wonderful memories along the way.

Shelly has been an NPC member since the summer of 2010 when she began making photographs using a point and shoot camera. She took Bill Kotas' Basic Photography Class and just after she completed the course her late husband, Fred, gave her a Pentax DSLR camera. She says getting into photography has been a life-altering experience that has changed the way she looks at the world—literally and figuratively.

Her initial interest was macro photography, but during her first trip to Southeast Asia she became fascinated with photojournalism and found she loves photographing people and diverse cultures. She enjoys spending time with other photographers as it helps her learn something new each day.

Shelly's presentation will focus on her most recent trip to the state of Rajasthan in north-western India this past November. She will share photos, stories, and information about photo tours and companies that offer them, especially for international trips.

“Actually, I’m not all that interested in the subject of photography. Once the picture is in the box, I’m not all that interested in what happens next. Hunters, after all, aren’t cooks.”

—HENRI CARTIER-BRESSON (1908 – 2004)
 French humanist photographer considered a master of candid photography, and an early user of 35 mm film. He pioneered the genre of street photography, and conceived of photography as capturing decisive moments.

PARTING SHOT

JULIA MARGARET CAMERON JOHN HERSCHEL

Julia Margaret Cameron (1815 – 1879) was a British photographer who became known for her portraits of celebrities of the time, and for photographs with Arthurian and other legendary or heroic themes. She took up photography at the relatively late age of 48, when she was given a camera as a present.

Her photographic career was short, spanning eleven years of her life: 1864 through 1875. Her style was not widely appreciated in her own day—her choice to use a soft focus and to treat photography as an art as well as a science, by manipulating the wet collodion process, caused her works to be viewed as “slovenly”, “mistakes” and bad photography. She found more acceptance among pre-Raphaelite artists than among photographers. Her work has influenced modern photographers, especially her closely cropped portraits.
